Harriet Tubman Feb 25 2022 University Press returns with another short and captivating portrait of one of history's most compelling figures, Harriet Tubman. Harriet Tubman was born a slave but found her way to freedom. Yet she was not satisfied to stop at merely attending to her own welfare. As a conductor on the Underground Railroad, she risked her life to help many others to escape the degradation of slavery too. Becoming one of the key players in the abolitionist movement, Harriet Tubman brought intelligence, courage, and persistence to the monumental task of overcoming slavery. Her story is an inspiration - a remarkable story of loss, compassion, and grit. This short book tells the intensely human story of a woman who has changed the world in a way that no one else could.

New Plains Review Jun 07 2020 The New Plains Review staff, a student-run literary journal at the University of Central Oklahoma, is proud to have received hundreds of submissions from all over the world. Keeping with the University of Central Oklahoma's goals of both excellence and diversity, it is our mission to share with our readers a selection of fantastic works from a diverse number of authors and artists throughout the world. We are eager to help these creators broaden their audience and re-inforce the importance of the arts in our everyday lives. It is also with these hopes of transformation and a broader perspective we present the Spring issue for 2015 to our readers. These selections give a glimpse into the authors and artists minds be they depictions of coping with everyday life, either in the past or the present, or growing more aware of the world at large. The works selected in this issue of the New Plains Review and its special "UCO@125" section strive to show glimpses of the human experience from a variety of different times and viewpoints and the ever evolving human spirit. This year, the University of Central Oklahoma is celebrating the 125th anniversary of its opening. As a result, we have added a special section to this issue of the New Plains Review, which is dedicated to the celebration of "UCO@125." The University of Central Oklahoma is one of the first institutions of higher learning to be established in Oklahoma; as a result, it is one of the longest running universities in the southwestern United States. The University is still going strong today, and it is dedicated to instructing through the methods of transformative learning. This method aims to not simply teaching students, but to teach them through opening their minds to other possibilities and viewpoints - to not only make them better scholars, but to make them better people. We hope that our journal is an inspiration to all our readers.

The Works of Jack London, Vol. 11 (of 17) May 19 2021 The Iron Heel is a dystopian novel by American writer Jack London, first published in 1908. Generally considered to be "the earliest of the modern dystopian" fiction, it chronicles the rise of an oligarchic tyranny in the United States. In The Iron Heel, Jack London's socialist views are explicitly on display.

Lucifer's Redemption May 07 2020 Abel Galvez grew up as the son of an immigrant on the golden shores of California. From a young age he learned that he had to fight for his dreams, but what started out as a battle to survive soon became a way of life and he eventually lost his way as various temptations came across his path. He became just as cunning and heartless as Lucifer and lost sight of the things in life that really matter. Now you can read about the riveting journey which took Abel from the highest echelons of society to the dire straits of a prison cell, where he started reading a Bible and discovered that Redemption was always possible, no matter how far a man has drifted off the right path. Find out how Abel changed his ways and finally gathered the courage to fight his way back to freedom!
