The France of the Little-Middles Aug 24 2019 The Poplars housing development in suburban Paris is home to what one resident called the “Little-Middles” – a social group on the tenuous border between the working- and middle- classes. In the 1960s The Poplars was a site of upward social mobility, which fostered an egalitarian sense of community among residents. This feeling of collective flourishing was challenged when some residents moved away, selling their homes to a new generation of upwardly mobile neighbors from predominantly immigrant backgrounds. This volume explores the strained reception of these migrants, arguing that this is less a product of racism and xenophobia than of anxiety about social class and the loss of a sense of community that reigned before.

My Little French Kitchen Jul 04 2020 This book took me on an adventure around France by train, plane, bus, car and bike - at one point, I was even driving a minibus! Up winding roads and down dirt tracks, through howling wind, rain, snow, hail . . . you name it, I braved every kind of weather. I was a woman on a mission to discover those recipes, now long forgotten and stuffed in the back of a drawer, made by regional French grandmas. But not just the old recipes: I was interested to see what France looked like today. How was the younger generation eating? Each recipe is a postcard from my little kitchen to yours, savouring the flavours, smells and textures that inspired me, and that I hope will inspire you too. Bon voyage on my little culinary tour of France! I hope you enjoy the trip. Rachel x

The Book of Dreams Jan 28 2020 From the New York Times and internationally bestselling author of The Little Paris Bookshop, comes a delightful, offbeat, charming and bittersweet tale about the distance one man will travel for the sake of love and friendship. Henri is about to meet his teenage son, Sam, for the first time. But as Henri crosses Hammersmith Bridge, an accident happens. The Beaux of Little Paris Sep 25 2019 The much beguiled protagonists of Book 1, Moblomov and Reiz, ramp up their pursuit of the missing celebrity from Highgate Cemetery and his abductors, our boys (and girls) Morrows, O'Hony & Co., with multiple geographical locations as the backdrop to this ongoing saga of cat and mouse. After an interlude on the ocean battered west coast of the Emerald Isle (Ireland) their exploits take them back to Düsseldorf where their stay is yet again curtailed by Moblomov's and Reiz's reoccurring unwelcome attentions and their consequent wanderings take them to farther reaches of Germany, the most striking of which being Berchtesgaden, a fairyland corner of the world with the echo of a Celtic past still distantly present where nature ruled untamed by human order, nestling below its five peaks in the Bavarian Alps. Enter Lt. Colonel Chalmondeley of the British Army of the Rhine based at Carmarthen Barracks in Düsseldorf contributing to driving the mayhem of the plot into top gear and leading to the ultimate failure of the pursuing party in achieving its goal of acquiring the 'goods' and the cash, with the local clerical community joining the action to round off the chaos as the final outcome of this farce. Treat yourself to an affirmation of Book 1 continuing to add a new dimension to the meaning of lunacy and total disrespect for the established order, and as to how incompetence can win against intelligence with three countries Ireland, Great Britain and Germany left to cope with the aftermath and leaving the imagined minor characters of this disaster ridden enterprise, become international incident, promoted to the status of title roles.

Ms. Deuzy is a 1985 "Charleston" model 2CV manufactured at the Citroën factory in Levallois outside of Paris. We fell in love with her on our travels in 2012 and brought her back from Belgium to live with us in North Carolina. Ms. Deuzy is a real character on four wheels who talks to Luc and her animal and automobile friends. So, in these stories, we will give her the ample opportunity to meet exciting and fun folks and go to exciting places. Her constant companion is Luc, an 18 year old student at the Sorbonne in Paris. He spends the summers on his family farm outside of Aix. We write these stories to share the incredible history of these 2CVs with the collectors who grew up with them and with their children and friends. We invite you to share your stories of your experiences with your favorite 2CVs and to tell us where you would like us to take our Ms. Deuzy in the future.
